

The Farm Bill is a Poison Pill for Pollinators

The House Farm Bill's Poisoned Pollinators Provision would undermine crucial safeguards from pesticides for threatened and endangered species, including important pollinators like bees, butterflies, birds and other wildlife. The Farm Bill is important to farmers across the country and promotes wildlife conservation on private lands. But the Poisoned Pollinators Provision is a direct attack on the Endangered Species Act—our nation's most effective law in protecting wildlife in danger of extinction. Farmers who depend on pollinators and intact natural systems for sound food production will also be hurt. defenders.org/savepollinators

Our 7.5 million supporters urge House members to Reject the Farm Bill (H.R. 2) and its Poisoned Pollinators Provision

